

The following tribute to Mae Penrose McManus, a member of the Philo-Celtic Society who died in September of 1964, has been received:

O where the hours now for Ireland spent
As now for her the hour is too late?
O where the time to Ireland's ledger lent
As she lies there beyond her length of time?
Is no one there to set the record straight
Upon the yet unwritten page of time?
The balance must be met to Ireland's debt
And while the well of hist'ry's ink is wet
The name of Mae McManus must be written yet.
